The World as I See It

The world as I see it, there's so much to do
I really can't wait to share
my experience with you.

Spring flowers are coming up out of the ground
I see a new bluebird that looks very round.
There's rainboots and puddles
we go jumping through.
Planting a garden and rainbows too.

Summer is hot and the sky is bright
We can play all day and into the night.
It's fun to go swimming and play capture the flag.
Go camping, cook smores, and later play tag.
Go hiking and biking and go to the park
Jump on the tramp, and sleep out in the dark.

In fall birds are headed far far away
They'll probably return in the middle of May.
The colorful leaves fly through the air
In the month of October
you'll sure get a scare.
We harvest the food we planted in spring
Give thanks for it all, and eat like a king.

Winter snowflakes fall everywhere I see Falling on rooftops, on you and on me.
We build a snow fort and love to go sledding
Drink hot chocolate, read stories,
and cuddle up in the bedding.

Everyone is different, everyone unique
We all bring something special to each mountain peak
From North to South, from East to West
When it come to the Earth, it's really the best.
The world as I see it is a beautiful place
So many things to experience
you'll need a fast pace.
