One of a Kind

Brilliant scarlet streaks the evening sky,
as a crimson orb settles beneath the waves.
A glowing orange light lingers in the clouds
after the glorious sunset.

Higher up, maroon shines onto
the overhanging clouds,
seemingly transforming them
into massive plumes of velvet.

Few are as fortunate as I to experience
such a resplendent happening in nature.

Tears come to my eyes as I realize What magnificent event
just sparkles below the horizon.

A lone frigate bird soars in the heavens,
almost effortlessly,
and sorrowfully calls to a lost companion.
No words could match the fabulous feeling,
of this fading twilight.
